

Hump day happy hours bring charity, gin and $1 oysters

October 29 at 10:00 am

Happy hump day. Make it through today, then reward yourself at one of these two one-time-only happy hours.

D.C. United head coach Ben Olsen will sling cocktails at Satellite Room tonight to raise money for neighborhood charity Martha's Table. (Photo by Rob Carr/Getty Images)

Ryan Magarian is a fixture on the Portland, Ore., bar scene. The veteran bartender is a co-creator of Aviation Gin, and a partner in Oven and Shaker restaurant and the new Easy Company bar. He also consults for cocktail bars and offers seminars all over the world. Magarian visits Shaw's Eat the Rich tonight from 5 to 7 p.m. to pour five original cocktails, including A Beautiful Liability (Aviation, dry vermouth, lime, honey syrup, grapefruit and rosemary) and the Amber Dream (Aviation, sweet vermouth, yellow Chartreuse and orange bitters). Drinks are $7 each. Meanwhile, the raw bar offers Rappahannock River Oysters for $1 each.

Tonight's bartenders over at the Satellite Room, on the other hand, haven't won awards or lectured at the annual Tales of the Cocktail convention. They are, however, "Shaking it Up" to raise money for Martha's Table, which provides food, clothing and tutoring for the needy from its headquarters at 14th and V streets NW. Participants include U Street bar magnate and Thievery Corporation co-founder Eric Hilton; 9:30 Club owner Seth Hurwitz; D.C. United coach Ben Olsen; and Brightest Young Things founder Svetlana Legetic. They'll serve their own original cocktails from 6 to 9 p.m., as well as just pouring beers and shots if that's all you want. Additional drink and food specials will be available.